Article 6

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures, including legislation, to suppress all forms of traffic in women and exploitation of prostitution of women.

Exploitation of Prostitution

□ A 2006 University of Brasília study found that approximately one-fourth of Brazil's tourist destinations had an active sexual commercial market for the exploitation of children and adolescents. With approximately 500,000 children reportedly sold in the sex trade, Brazil is poised to become a country with the highest number of prostituted children in the world.

□ In 2002, the Brazilian Labor and Employment Ministry included prostitution on its list of authorized working activities and professions open to anyone 18 years and older. The average schooling suggested as necessary for prostitution is between fourth and seventh grades.

□ Section 5198 of the Brazilian Classification of Occupations is in clear violation of Article 6 of the UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW), which Brazil ratified.

THE DEMAND FOR GIRLS

A close-up photograph of a hand in a dark suit sleeve holding a wooden gavel. The gavel is positioned over a wooden surface, likely a judge's bench. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the texture of the wood and the hand.

- ▣ Having sex with underage girls is "immoral and reprehensible," said the High Criminal Court in Brazil on March 27, 2012. However, according to another decision, the same Court noted that a man who had sex with 12 year old girls did not commit any crime. Overturning the lower court's judgment, the judges of the High Criminal Court ruled that the age of consent (14) in the provision was not absolute, but could be maintained or modified depending on circumstances. In the case of the three girls, the Court decided that they were "working as prostitutes" and that they were not "innocent, naive, ignorant or misinformed about sexual matters." The Court decided that these children were mature enough to give consent.
